Winning the Shadow War Are Russia and China Winning? Are Russia and China winning the Shadow War? On the battlefields described in this book, they have occupied new territory, inflicted damage on US and allied forces, and acquired spoils of war, often in the form of stolen national security secrets. Russia still controls Crimea and large portions of Eastern Ukraine. China still controls its man-made islands in the South China Sea and is expanding its military presence there. Russia and China have successfully deployed and tested antisatellite weapons that threaten US assets in space. China's theft of US state secrets and private sector intellectual property has not decreased in effectiveness. Both Russia and China have demonstrated the capability to penetrate US political parties and election systems for the purposes of interfering in the US political process, with worrisome implications for future elections. In addition, Russia has established a further military beachhead in Transnistria. And it continues to disrupt elsewhere in Eastern Europe via nonmilitary means, such as its attempted coup in Montenegro in 2016. Losses and setbacks in these battles do not mean the United States has lost the larger, global competition with its two biggest adversaries.

Sciutto, Jim. The Shadow War (pp. 247-248). Harper. Kindle Edition.

The God of peace shall tread Satan under your feet. Christ has broken the serpent's head, spoiled our spiritual enemies (Col. 2:15), and through him we are more than conquerors; for Christ calls us, as Joshua called the captains of Israel, to come and set our feet on the necks of vanquished enemies. Some think this promise had its full accomplishment in Christ, and the miraculous power which he had over the whole creation, healing the sick, casting out devils, and particularly putting it into his disciples' commission that they should take up serpents, Mark 16:18."9 In Revelation, John describes Satan as "the great dragon . . . that old serpent, called the Devil, and Satan, which deceiveth the whole world" (Rev. 12:9, KJV). Here we see that the great dragon—warring against almighty God, battling Michael the archangel and other mighty angels (v. 7), persecuting the church, and fighting against believers—is none other than "that old serpent." He's the same one who beguiled Eve in the Garden of Eden and whose head was crushed by the Messiah. We battle against him still today. But we fight from a position of victory, not defeat. In Luke chapter 10 Jesus sent seventy-two disciples out two by two to every place He was about to go. He gave them authority and told them to heal the sick and tell them that the kingdom of heaven is near. They returned to Jesus, rejoicing that the demons were subject to them in His name. Jesus responded, "I saw Satan fall like lightning from heaven. I have given you authority to trample on snakes and scorpions and to overcome all the power of the enemy; nothing will harm you. However, do not rejoice that the spirits submit to you, but rejoice that your names are written in heaven" (vv. 18–20). What an amazing scripture! Jesus, the One who was prophesied of old to crush the head of the serpent, has given us authority to trample on the serpent as well! And yet there is a more glorious promise. No matter what happens to us in this life, our names are written in heaven! No matter what, we win! We fight from a place of victory. This is why Jesus promises, "In this world you will have trouble. But take heart! I have overcome the world" (John 16:33). AN OVERVIEW In this book we will look at what the Bible teaches about spiritual warfare. First, we will examine what the Bible has to say about angels, demons, and the spiritual world. Are there different kinds of angels? What purpose do they serve? Who is Satan, and where did he come from?

Kolenda, Daniel. Slaying Dragons: A Practical Guide to Spiritual Warfare (pp. viii-ix). Charisma House. Kindle Edition. Chinese, Japanese, Korean, Vietnamese, and other Asian mythology. The Bible also uses dragon imagery. In the first story, in the beginning of the first book of the Bible, we are introduced to the dragon. Satan, in the form of a sentient, talking serpent, beguiles Eve and brings about the fall of mankind. The story ends with a prophetic promise that points to Jesus. God says to the serpent, "And I will put enmity between you and the woman, and between your offspring and hers; he will crush your head, and you will strike his heel" (Gen. 3:15). Christ, the offspring of Eve, would crush the head of that old serpent. Christ's body was mortally wounded in the process, but He rose from the dead in victory! His death was but a strike to the heel. On the other hand, Satan was defeated over and over by Jesus during His earthly life. Then at the cross he was utterly conquered with no hope of ever rising again to victory. His head was totally crushed. Even now, as he continues to ravage the world with sickness, disease, temptation, and all kinds of evil, he is a completely vanquished and defeated foe. His only power is what we give him. Although Satan's ultimate defeat came through the death and resurrection of Christ, Jesus beat the devil soundly at every turn throughout His earthly life. Jesus demonstrated for us what it is to walk in victory.

He gave His disciples authority to walk in that same victory over sin, Satan, and evil. This is our inheritance as children of the light.

Kolenda, Daniel. Slaying Dragons: A Practical Guide to Spiritual Warfare (p. vii). Charisma House. Kindle Edition.

Psychic Discoveries Behind The Iron Curtain

The year 1970 marked the publication of a now classic book on Soviet psychic research. Called Psychic Discoveries Behind the Iron Curtain, it was written by two Western journalists, Sheila Ostrander and Lynn Schroeder. During their stay in what was then the Soviet Union, Ostrander and Schroeder travelled far and wide, interviewing numerous scientists who were conducting groundbreaking research in the field of parapsychology.

When Psychic Discoveries was first released, it caused quite a stir, sparking both public and government interest in 'psychic warfare'. Had it never been written, the US government's fear of 'Soviet psychic mind control' would probably not have reached the extreme that it did.

Research only here

It seems from the standpoint of conventional science, that the concept of remote viewing cannot possibly exist. Unfortunately, there are numerous declassified CIA and DIA documents amounting to tens of thousands of pages, which catalogue the U.S. government's top secret remote viewing programme. First hand corroboration about the U.S. military's secret RV projects, comes from actual military remote viewers such as Joe McMoneagle and Lyn Buchanan, who now teach the general public remote viewing. More extraordinary are the declassified documents released by the U.S. government which document the Soviet paranormal warfare programme which are reproduced in full in appendices i and ii; they mention psychotronics giving the capability to Russian Psi-warriors to remotely influence, effect electronics by telekinesis and even remotely kill.

These documents are freely available under the American Freedom of Information Act, and the author recommends that the serious researcher look at these papers. The concept that the superpowers engaged in an inner space arms race using Psi-warriors seems far fetched, but sometimes truth is stranger than fact. It is alleged that both U.S. and Russian psychic warriors engaged in a secret paranormal war, remotely influencing and remotely killing each other. There is some mention of there being a seventy percent failure rate in the training of remote influencers, these trainees being driven mad by the hypnosis and drug regimens needed to induce these high level Psi-abilities. David Morehouse mentions this remote influencing programme in his account of his military remote viewing training.

3. THE RUSSIANS AND FUTURE WAR

- Psalm 83 Ezekiel 38
- Author S. Douglas Woodward tackles the turbulent and tense relationship between Russia and the United States as the backdrop to Ezekiel's famed prophecy—the "Battle of Gog and Magog." The author argues the specter of nuclear war looms as prelude to the prophesied war when Gog gathers his great army to attack Israel. Woodward's assessment builds upon scores of timely articles composed by respected journalists and research papers written by geopolitical experts who study the Middle East, compiling their findings and documenting why a great war may explode in the days just ahead as a result of Islamic terror, Russian militarism, and failed U.S. policies toward Iran, Iraq, Israel, and most recently the fight against ISIS in Syria. Woodward challenges popular prophetic teachings arguing the next war in the Middle East is not the "Psalm 83 War," why Russia and not Turkey will be Ezekiel's Gog, why advances in Russian weaponry threaten the security of the United States, and how U.S. policy is at fault for today's instability in Syria and Iraq. Expositing Ezekiel 38-39, the author uncovers the dark forces behind Gog and shows when the event occurs during the last days. The fate of America also comprises a major theme of this study.

Go? The Hudson Taylor prophetic vision here

Hudson Taylor, missionary to China and founder of the first truly inter-denominational foreign mission, the China Inland Mission, was graced by God to glimpse some of today's events 140 years ago.

On one of his furloughs to England in 1855, Taylor was preaching when suddenly he stopped. He stood speechless for a time with his eyes closed. When he began to speak again he explained: I have seen a vision. I saw in this vision a Great War that encompasses the world. I saw this war recess and then start again, actually being two wars. After this I saw much unrest and revolts that will affect many nations. I saw in some places spiritual awakenings. In Russia, I saw there will come a general all-encompassing, national SPIRITUAL AWAKENING so great that there could never be another like it. From Russia, I saw the awakening spread to many European countries. Then I saw an all-out awakening, followed by the coming of Christ.

(From an original Russian article titled "Spiritual Revival" published in Finland in 1945, reprinted from "Food for Life International". Quoted in "Intercessors for America Newsletter", vol 21, no 7/8, also in the "European Prayer Bulletin", 3rd quarter 1994.)

“A traumatic experience such as repeated abuse as a child, sex trafficking, acts of war, viewing something particularly horrific like a murder or suicide and any number of things can cause dissociation. When one has been a victim of a cult or has experienced SRA, there can be added complications and torment due to demonization. When it comes to mind control programming, the plot thickens even more because of the complexity of the process and the way the mind is purposefully manipulated, oftentimes from a very early age. Most dissociation is a by-product of trauma. In the case of mind control, particularly with Monarch programming, the goal is to cause the subject to dissociate. No, that wasn't a typo. The GOAL is to cause the person to dissociate so that they may be controlled”.

In today's world, perception has become reality. Beliefs become embedded in the average person's perceptions of the world and events around them. But in reality, not all things are as they appear. I was once told by a man who held a position high in the world of government intelligence that there is an entirely different world of evil and darkness that exists about which the average person knows nothing. That was once my reality and at times, I long to return to the ignorant bliss of that world. You cannot "un-see" what you've already seen, nor can you "un-learn" what you have discovered. This is my story, as Marc Stiles, of how I came to learn that there are forces of darkness that exist just beyond a very thin veil at the farthest edge of our periphery, that separates good and evil. These forces are real, and the fact that you might not believe it does not disprove their existence. I believe, in fact, that such forces are actually counting on your disbelief so they can continue their deeds unmolested. Hagmann, Douglas. Stained by Blood: A Murder Investigation. The Santa Clara Sheriff's Department, at the time of the killing, didn't interview any of Arlis' close friends in Bismarck—so convinced were they that the killer or killers were California psychopaths. Then, in 1979, despite their belief in Berkowitz's veracity, they sat tight—with the exception of fresh interviews of Arlis' parents, Bruce Perry and Bruce's parents. We, however, decided to act. Here is the picture which emerged. In 1971-73, a northern California-based cult, which claimed it wasn't satanic, materialized in Bismarck, the capital of North Dakota, a small town with a population of 36,000. There were six representatives of this cult group in Bismarck. They wore black clerical garb, but adorned their necks with red collars and ribbons instead of religious white collars. Members of this sect rented a home in Bismarck directly across the street from the residence of Arlis' grandmother. Arlis visited her grandmother regularly and may have contacted group members in that way. Terry, Maury. The Ultimate Evil: An Investigation into America's Most Dangerous Satanic Cult. Doubleday. The second female was fighting, speaking in tongues, and looked me in the eye. I could see the evil inside and recognized the similarities from the previous case. She began repeating the same statements as the first female. She was fighting for custody of her daughter, just like the first female. She was a prostitute like the first female. This time, "it" kept asking me to look at the moon. The demon inside the woman influenced her to rip her clothes off. It was repeating the same vulgarities as the first woman. This time, however, it kept mentioning that it was trying to "understand" our "species" and said "it will all be over now." Then it started naming the people it would spare. And said to some of the officers and emergency personnel that they were "free." When it looked at me it became angry and said I was not free like the others. It knew that I knew what it truly was. But this time the emergency workers gave a newer drug for sedation. It didn't like that, it started twisting with an arched back like it was throwing a tantrum, and then it screamed its name. Its demon name. I didn't know at the time, I knew the possessed woman's real name, but the thing inside her started yelling at the top of its lungs identifying itself by a demon name. Yes, she suffered a mental illness perhaps, yes she was on drugs, and yes it appeared that she was hallucinating. But this was real. I later researched the name the woman was screaming out and it was a demon I had never heard of.

More on.... this

Targeting the satanic underground, breaking through the physical, mental, and spiritual barriers is vitally needed. How do you do this andwhy would you want to? (the victims of SRA, and how they summon and send dark powers to influence/shape governments, military, the wealth elite, the tech giants and the 'satanization of society'.

Like in Ezekiel ch 8 notes: The great prophet did not know about or where the underground 'luciferians' of that day were meeting. It could be there was 'talk' about it but it was God alone who knew about the who, where, why, and how to find these ritual workers of that day. What was done deep down in the hidden underground was not only real but.....they were the dark, violent, bloody abominations.

This chapter in Ezekiel selected and recorded for us to study is an incredibly detailed exposure of what would now be called 'satanic ritual abuse or the real -luciferians, with blood rituals and covens. The very things they did then are the very things done for generations and are the blood rituals that are going on globally.

There are four main things to know (we need to know) about this global network of current day 'luciferians' as they practice the same abominations today. They are the very ones behind the global chaos of today and the coming end of days destruction to come. They are the 'mystery of iniquity' or shadow system (eyes wide shut) the world whispers about.

Here are the 4 points I will talk about on the live Ragged Edge Radio today.

1. They are really there (as in Ezekiel's day) and growing as part of the end of days prophecy on the rise of 'Babylon', the new beast-world order and the rise of the satanic 'armies' of the antichrist (Revelation 19:19). It is simply how that vast global underground gets the demonic satanic powers to this side. It is how satan uses these blood ritual doorways he creates to get his dark agenda accomplished. It will not be done by 'human hands' (Daniel) but by real conjured vast demonic powers (Revelation 12-13).

2. They currently 'hide' themselves by layers of physical protection. Like criminals (organized crime-drug lords etc.) they must secure their evil practices by shielding themselves and their deadly works. What they do are extremely high crimes, and they are radically evil. Their members and victims are controlled by fear, intimidation, mind control, death threats and the demons summonedand operative. They meet in these chosen secured hidden underground places, High places in the deep woods (like Bohemian grove), in the old castles and other locations that would keep them securely hidden. Armed guards, technology, and layers of security to keep the rest of us away from.

3. They use the 'mental' the doubling process that helps them secure their evil practices. By plotted disinformation, confusion and what the nazis called 'doubling' they are right here in front of us but 'masqueraded'. They by design live 'normal' public lives to be seen by all and seek to be seen as the good folks of 'normal' society. They are the radical evil persons of the underground but by day they seek to be shown as societies best. In Ezekiel's day the blood and guts 'satanists' in the underground were found.... they were the public leaders and 'normal' folks of society. They are like public cotton candy wrapped around razorblades.

4th And I believe that this layer of secrecy is the most sought and powerful level of keeping themselves totally hidden... dark powers, yes demons! They live in dark supernaturalism and the demons they serve and summon are used to cover them. There is a demonic-supernatural covering over all satanic-luciferic covens and this global network for now. They even have rituals that summons demons to be used.... to blind-deter and shield their locations-activities and identities. This demonic shielding is there most powerful aspect and only the presence, power and work of God can tear it down.

"Can a man hide in secret places where I cannot see him?" declares the LORD. "Do I not fill the heavens and the earth?" declares the LORD.

8Then He said to me, "Son of man, dig into the wall"; and when I dug into the wall, there was a door.

9And He said to me, "Go in, and see the wicked abominations which they are doing there." 10So I went in and saw, and there—every sort of creeping thing, abominable beasts, and all the idols of the house of Israel, portrayed all around on the walls. 11And there stood before them seventy men of the elders of the house of Israel, and in their midst stood Jaazaniah the son of Shaphan. Each man had a censer in his hand, and a thick cloud of incense went up. 12Then He said to me, "Son of man, have you seen what the elders of the house of Israel do in the dark, every man in the room of his idols? For they say, 'The LORD does not see us, the LORD has forsaken the land.' "

13And He said to me, "Turn again, and you will see greater abominations that they are doing." 14So He brought me to the door of the north gate of the LORD's house; and to my dismay, women were sitting there weeping for Tammuz. 15Then He said to me, "Have you seen this, O son of man? Turn again, you will see greater abominations than these."

It may be that God needed a certain officer with special skills to handle that call. THOSE are the calls to be very alert on, because God chose you. In order to understand who a private investigator is, it is important to distinguish between the different types of investigators in the legal system. Investigators fall into three broad categories:

law enforcement, public, and private. Law enforcement investigators are sworn agents and employees of government agencies whose sole purpose is to enforce criminal statutes of the jurisdictions where they operate. Public investigators are employees of government agencies who provide criminal defense services or investigate specific regulatory or other non-criminal matters. In contrast, private investigators are licensed within a specific state or jurisdiction to work on behalf of private citizens, companies, or their legal counsel to investigate both criminal and civil matters. In this discussion we are going to focus solely on law enforcement and private investigators.

PART 28

THE FALSE BURIED MEMORY DIVERSION SATANIC PANIC??

I will remember the works of the LORD; Surely I will remember Your wonders of old. Psalm 77:11

Remember the prisoners as if chained with them—those who are mistreated—since you yourselves are in the body also. Hebrews 13

Remember this, that the enemy has reproached, O LORD, And that a foolish people has blasphemed Your name. Psalm 74

Then they remembered that God was their rock, And the Most High God their Redeemer. Psalm 78

But the Helper (Comforter, Advocate, Intercessor—Counselor, Strengtheners, Standby), the Holy Spirit, whom the Father will send in My name [in My place, to represent Me and act on My behalf], He will teach you all things. And He will help you remember everything that I have told you. John 14 (amplified version)

23Search me, O God, and know my heart; test me and know my concerns. 24See if there is any offensive way in me; lead me in the way everlasting.... Psalm 139

However, most of these FMS advocates are not clinicians who specialize in the long term treatment or study of people with post-traumatic states. 519, 620, 646, 718 It is with trauma survivors, that a more accurate assessment and description of recovered memory may be found, not with college students looking at photos.^{114, 156} In fact, there is a large body of research into traumatic memory which FMS advocates tend to ignore. In addition to the existing research with survivors, which I describe in Chapter 8, one reliable way to obtain a more accurate topography of traumatic memories will be to continue to study trauma survivors, and to survey and study the front-line clinicians who work with them.

Charles Whitfield. Memory and Abuse: Remembering and Healing the Effects of Trauma (Kindle Locations 292-297). Kindle Edition.

Long-term memory typically refers to the process of retrieval. However, long-term memory can also refer to encoding, the acquisition of information (see Chapter 1). Long-term memory encoding occurs with little if any effort in everyday life. If a person pays attention to something or it is meaningful, they will likely remember it later.

“Cells that fire together, wire together.” Each and every memory originates as a change in connectivity between brain cells.

Levine Phd, Peter A.. Trauma and Memory: Brain and Body in a Search for the Living Past: A Practical Guide for Understanding and Working with Traumatic Memory (p. 137). North Atlantic Books. Kindle Edition.

Memories form the very bedrock of our identities and help define what it means to be human. Though not necessarily entirely accurate or permanent, memories are a magnetic compass that guides us through new situations. They help us render a context for these emerging experiences so that we are able to confidently plan our next steps while

In contrast to “ordinary” memories (both good and bad), which are mutable and dynamically changing over time, traumatic memories are fixed and static. They are imprints (engrams) from past overwhelming experiences, deep impressions carved into the sufferer’s brain, body, and psyche. These harsh and frozen imprints do not yield to change, nor do they readily update with current information. The “fixity” of imprints prevents us from forming new strategies and extracting new meanings. There is no fresh, ever-changing now and no real flow in life. In this way, the past lives on in the present; or as William Faulkner wrote in Requiem for a Nun: “The past is never dead. It’s not even past.” Rather, it lives as a panoply of manifold fears, phobias, physical symptoms, and illnesses. In sharp contrast to gratifying or even troublesome memories, which can generally be formed and revisited as coherent narratives, “traumatic memories” tend to arise as fragmented splinters of inchoate and indigestible sensations, emotions, images, smells, tastes, thoughts, and so on.

Levine Phd, Peter A.. Trauma and Memory: Brain and Body in a Search for the Living Past: A Practical Guide for Understanding and Working with Traumatic Memory (p. 7). North Atlantic Books. Kindle Edition.

“Who really wants to remember abuse, blood, pain and terror? The history of man includes the embedding of blood and guts memory....from real live horrific evil, like when Cain slaughtered Able. But Ables memories were put to bed permanentlywhen he died. But God’s memory of all that abuse is more than razor sharp and he calls it to account.” RD

“What have you done?” replied the LORD.

“The voice of your brother’s blood cries out to Me from the ground....

"If it does not exist (SRA) then where did all the millions of victims with the trauma, pain and those bloody memories come from? In the 1980s, it seemed impossible to escape Satan's supposed influence. Everywhere you turned, there were warnings about a widespread evil conspiracy to indoctrinate the vulnerable through the media they consumed. This percolating cultural hysteria, now known as the "Satanic Panic," not only sought to convince us of devils lurking behind the dials of our TVs and radios and the hellfire that awaited on book and video store shelves, it also created its own fascinating cultural legacy of Satan-battling VHS tapes, audio cassettes and literature. Satanic Panic: Pop-Cultural Paranoia in the 1980s offers an in-depth exploration of how a controversial culture war played out during the decade, from the publication of the memoir Michelle Remembers in 1980 to the end of the McMartin "Satanic Ritual Abuse" Trial in 1990.

Satanic Panic features new essays and interviews by 20 writers who address the ways the widespread fear of a Satanic conspiracy was both illuminated and propagated through almost every pop culture pathway in the 1980

Communities throughout the United States were convulsed in the 1980s and early 1990s by accusations, often without a shred of serious evidence, that respectable men and women in their midst many of them trusted preschool teachers secretly gathered in far reaching conspiracies to rape and terrorize children. PART 31

The U.S. Department of Health and Human Services' Children's Bureau report Child Maltreatment 2010 found that 9.2% of victimized children were sexually assaulted (page 24). Studies by David Finkelhor, Director of the Crimes Against Children Research Center, show that: 1 in 5 girls and 1 in 20 boys is a victim of child sexual abuse.

Self-report studies show that 20% of adult females and 5-10% of adult males recall a childhood sexual assault or sexual abuse incident.

During a one-year period in the U.S., 16% of youth ages 14 to 17 had been sexually victimized. Over the course of their lifetime, 28% of U.S. youth ages 14 to 17 had been sexually victimized.

Children are most vulnerable to CSA between the ages of 7 and 13.

According to a 2003 National Institute of Justice report, 3 out of 4 adolescents who have been sexually assaulted were victimized by someone they knew well (page 5).

A Bureau of Justice Statistics report shows 1.6 % (sixteen out of one thousand) of children between the ages of 12-17 were victims of rape/sexual assault (page 18).

AT THE GATES OF HELL

WHEN THE PERPS (BAD GUYS) GET MAD AND WANT TO STOP YOU

who through faith are shielded by God's power until the coming of the salvation that is ready to be revealed in the last time. ¹Peter?

Spiritual Warfare Thank you for joining me in this exciting journey through God's Word. I wrote this book to help Christians understand what Scripture says about spiritual warfare, both now and into the prophetic end times. My hope and prayer is that as you read this book, you will attain...

- a better understanding of spiritual warfare and how knowledge of this warfare can benefit your life spiritually, emotionally, and even physically;
- an awareness— perhaps for the first time in your life— of the specific tactics Satan is most likely to use against you this year and the years that follow as we move into the end times;
- insights into the ways Satan can gain a stronghold in your life— as well as what you can do to prevent it and what you can do if he already has one;
- an understanding about the gang attack— composed of the world, the flesh, and the devil— that daily confronts you;
- an awareness of how satanic and demonic attacks will intensify in the end times, especially in the years that immediately precede the second coming of Christ;
- a strong conviction about how staying close to Jesus is one of the most important factors in your victory in spiritual warfare. (The sheep who are the safest from the wolves are those who stay nearest the Shepherd.)
- insights about the pivotal role of the Holy Spirit (the "Spirit of truth") in overcoming the devil (the "father of lies");
- an understanding of how to daily get dressed in God's armor, which will keep you safe in the trenches of spiritual warfare;
- a strong conviction about the strategic importance of prayer in overcoming the archenemy of our souls;
- a strong conviction about the strategic importance of God's Word in standing against— and defeating— the archenemy of our souls;
- insights about God's holy angels and how God uses these invisible secret agents behind the scenes to protect you and bring blessing into your life;
- an exalted view of the supreme majesty, glory, and power of Jesus Christ;
- a strong conviction that God will one day bring a mighty triumph over all the powers

This approach is intentional. The internal war is the one most people neglect, and it is also where most people fall. If you are defeated within, you will never have authority over the external world. Once you have brought your mind into the right way of thinking, submitted yourself to God, and clothed yourself in His armor, it is time to bring His kingdom into every corner of the world. That is our calling and purpose, as discussed in chapter 5. Second Corinthians 10:4 contains this powerful parenthetical statement: “For the weapons of our warfare are not carnal, but mighty through God to the pulling down of strong holds” (KJV). What are these weapons? You might immediately think of the armor of God in Ephesians 6, which we have already discussed. But remember, this list contains only one offensive weapon—the sword of the Spirit, which is the Word of God. The rest of the gear is strictly defensive (i.e., they are not listed as weapons). Yet Paul says that we have mighty spiritual weapons (plural) for waging warfare and pulling down strongholds. The question remains, what are these weapons? First, as I argued in chapter 6, it’s important to keep in mind that Paul’s teaching on the armor of God is not meant to be taken too strictly. Paul’s metaphor approximates God’s armor in Isaiah 59:15–18. It indicates a readiness for battle against evil and injustice. For us as well, clothing ourselves in spiritual armor is an indication we are on the warpath against evil. But obviously believers have many powerful weapons in our arsenal beyond those listed in Ephesians 6. The Bible does not always use the military metaphor, but many of the virtues and gifts listed throughout Scripture are still mighty weapons for warfare.

AT THE GATES OF HELL...HADES

PART 33

18Κἀγὼ δέ σοι λέγω ὅτι σὺ εἶ Πέτρος καὶ ἐπὶ ταύτῃ τῇ πέτρᾳ οἰκοδομήσω μου τὴν ἐκκλησίαν καὶ πύλαι ᾄδου οὐ κατισχύσουσιν αὐτῆς

18And I tell you that you are Peter, and on this rock I will build My church, and [the] gates of Hades will not prevail against it. Matthew 16:18

The phrase the “gates of hell” is translated in some versions as the “gates of Hades.” “Gates of hell” or “gates of Hades” is found only once in the entire Scriptures, in Matthew 16:18. In this passage, Jesus is referring to the building of His church: “And I tell you, you are Peter, and on this rock I will build my church, and the gates of hell shall not prevail against it” (Matthew 16:18).

At that time Jesus had not yet established His church. In fact, this is the first instance of the word church in the New Testament. The word church, as used by Jesus, is derived from the Greek ekklesia, which means the “called out” or “assembly.” In other words, the church that Jesus is referencing as His church is the assembly of people who have been called out of the world by the gospel of Christ.

Bible scholars debate the actual meaning of the phrase “and the gates of hell shall not prevail against it.” One of the better interpretations to the meaning of this phrase is as follows. In ancient times, the cities were surrounded by walls with gates, and in battles the gates of these cities would usually be the first place their enemies assaulted. This was because the protection of the city was determined by the strength or power of its gates.

As such, the “gates of hell” or “gates of Hades” means the power of Hades. The name “Hades” was originally the name of the god who presided over the realm of the dead and was often referred to as the “house of Hades.” It designated the place to which everyone who departs this life descends, regardless of their moral character. In the New Testament, Hades is the realm of the dead, and in this verse Hades or hell is represented as a mighty city with its gates representing its power.

Jesus refers here to His impending death. Though He would be crucified and buried, He would rise from the dead and build His church. Jesus is emphasizing the fact that the powers of death could not hold Him in. Not only would the church be established in spite of the powers of Hades or hell, but the church would thrive in spite of these powers. The church will never fail, though generation after generation succumbs to the power of physical death, yet other generations will arise to perpetuate the church. And it will continue until it has fulfilled its mission on earth as Jesus has commanded:

"All authority in heaven and on earth has been given to me. Go therefore and make disciples of all nations, baptizing them in the name of the Father and of the Son and of the Holy Spirit, teaching them to observe all that I have commanded you. And behold, I am with you always, to the end of the age" (Matthew 28:18–20). HERE

PREVAIL

Katischuó Phonetic Spelling: (kat-is-khoo'-o) Definition: to overpower Usage: I prevail against, overpower, get the upper hand

katischusousin Root: κατασχύω

1) to be strong to another's detriment, to prevail against 2) to be superior in strength 3) to overcome 4) to prevail/ net bible

“...the gates of hades represent the apex and forefront of the sum total of the powers of darkness...all that they are, what they do, who they are against and what is their ultimate goal. The gates hades is the violent, evil, front line of all the satanic-demonic powers that are active and raging.” rd

In the days of Jesus, hell was a literal place, more specifically hell was a garbage dump in Jerusalem, a local incinerator, known as a place of perpetual burning. Spiritually, according to Matthew 25:41, hell is a place prepared for the devil and demons and its final resting place of torment, forever.

Hades, however, means “underworld”, a place of death. In Greek mythology, which was very popular in Jesus’s day, Hade’s responsibility was to govern and rule the underworld and death. His two brothers were Zeus and Poseidon. Zeus, was the supreme ruler on earth and Poseidon, was the ruler of the waters. Together, these three made up a triune rulership over the universe.

Hades and the Ekklesia

Hades then represents, the domain of Satan, and the kingdom of darkness, because all things that contribute to death are part of Satan’s realm having his influence in every sphere of society.

This gives the Ekklesia greater clarity about its role and assignment.

Picture Jesus standing with his young disciples in this dark, demonically infested region, pointing to the Gates of Hades as the target of His Ekklesia!

In full view of these Gates, Jesus provides the mission and mandate of His Ekklesia. He was very strategic and made sure he took the twelve to this exact point so there would be no misinterpretation or confusion about what He is calling them to do. Christ’s Ekklesia is to co-labor with Him to access the Gates of Hades and bring heaven to earth.

The Gates of Hades represents all that opposes God’s will. Crime, corruption, lying, sexual immorality, pornography, ungodly ways of doing business, humanism, abortion, to name a few. All these, and more, have come out of these gates into our society. Our responsibility is co-labor with Jesus and bring the gospel to these “gates,” redeeming and reclaiming lives and systems.

Jesus Enters These Very Gates First

What must be noted here is that upon Jesus’ death and resurrection, He enters through these very gates ahead of His disciples. The Bible says that Jesus passed into Hades, preached salvation, and defeated death, hell, and the grave, making a public spectacle of principalities and powers (Acts 2:31; Rev.1:17-18; Col. 2:15). SONG

We know that all things work together for good to those who love God, to those who are called according to His purpose. ²⁹ For those whom He foreknew, He predestined to be conformed to the image of His Son, so that He might be the firstborn among many brothers. ³⁰ And those whom He predestined, He also called; and those whom He called, He also justified; and those whom He justified, He also glorified.

The Love of God

³¹ What then shall we say to these things? If God is for us, who can be against us? ³² He who did not spare His own Son, but delivered Him up for us all, how shall He not with Him also freely give us all things? ³³ Who shall bring a charge against God's elect? It is God who justifies. ³⁴ Who is he who condemns? It is Christ who died, yes, who is risen, who is also at the right hand of God, who also intercedes for us. ³⁵ Who shall separate us from the love of Christ? Shall tribulation, or distress, or persecution, or famine, or nakedness, or peril, or sword? ³⁶ As it is written:

“For Your sake we are killed all day long;

we are counted as sheep for the slaughter.”

³⁷ No, in all these things we are more than conquerors through Him who loved us. ³⁸ For I am persuaded that neither death nor life, neither angels nor principalities nor powers, neither things present nor things to come, ³⁹ neither height nor depth, nor any other created thing, shall be able to separate us from the love of God, which is in Christ Jesus our Lord.

Cantor, Sarah. The Land of Dark Forgetting: My story of healing from Satanic Ritual Abuse (pp. 111-112). Kindle Edition.

Ritual abuse was a complex and intimidating phenomenon for which we were totally unprepared, both professionally and personally. Therapists in the USA, Canada, the UK, and elsewhere around the world found themselves listening to horrifying, shocking, and sometimes unbelievable disclosures by terrorized clients. Survivors reported being accessed and abused while in treatment. They also conveyed threats that were made against us, some of which were carried out. Clients— and often therapists— became convinced that they were being tracked by an invisible network of omnipresent and omnipotent abusers, with no escape. These abuses continued even when survivors appeared to follow all the recommended rules of self-protection. Desperate staffs turned hospital-based inpatient treatment protocols on their ears to protect patients from a force no one totally understood, but some patients reported being abused while in hospitals. The treatment process itself would also prove endlessly complicated, even dangerous. Survivors often began therapy with determination and resolve, only to drop out because their memories flooded them, or because self-destructive behaviors took them over. The training and skills we brought to these clients often seemed to make things worse. The normal rules just did not apply. On a desperate journey to meet our clients' needs, we reached out for guidance from some pioneering professionals and brave survivors (the real experts). What they had to offer was invaluable, but we still could not figure out what the new rules needed to be. Some healed. Many did not. They tried. We tried. Treating ritual abuse felt frightening, overwhelming, confusing, and, frankly, sometimes impossible. And now we found ourselves facing a new challenge. In the USA, although its tentacles spread to other places, a curious group of people launched a campaign to discredit and destroy all of those involved with helping survivors of hidden (dissociated) trauma, in particular ritual abuse, and its survivors. The media colluded with the agenda of this movement, and society welcomed it. Someone once said that there is no taboo against incest, just a taboo against talking about it. That was certainly what we saw now regarding ritual abuse and mind control. Anyone attempting to recognize this still new and alien occurrence was blacklisted. The conspiracy of silence about child abuse had now become a conspiracy of censorship, even within the profession charged with its treatment. As a result, the truth about ritual abuse could no longer find a forum. Research and education ground to a halt.

Only a glimpse and all of it is gone, images I will question I ever seen at all, but deep in my soul I know it was real. Each night, I wait for them to come back, afraid. They do, reminding me I am losing, and I give into tears and the swallowing darkness. I beg them to leave me, but they say they cannot. Through their dancing, I see more things; visions of places evil and terrifying. All is blackness and fear, pain and screaming. I raise my hands to my face so I see nothing. I forget. And when I open my eyes, I find myself waiting... but I cannot remember for what.

3. Knowledge (Omniscience) God's knowledge may be defined as follows: God fully knows himself and all things actual and possible in one simple and eternal act. Elihu says that God is the one "who is perfect in knowledge" (Job 37:16), and John says that God "knows everything" (1 John 3:20). The quality of knowing everything is called omniscience, and because God knows everything, he is said to be omniscient (that is, "all-knowing"). a. God Knows Himself. The definition given above explains omniscience in more detail. It says first that God fully knows himself. This is an amazing fact since God's own being is infinite or unlimited. Of course, only he who is infinite can fully know himself in every detail. This fact is implied by Paul when he says, "For the Spirit searches everything, even the depths of God. For who knows a person's thoughts except the spirit of that person, which is in him? So also no one comprehends the thoughts of God except the Spirit of God" (1 Cor. 2:10–11). This idea is also suggested by John's statement that "God is light and in him is no darkness at all" (1 John 1:5). In this context "light" has a suggestion of both moral purity and full knowledge or awareness. If there is "no darkness at all" in God, but he is entirely "light," then God is himself both entirely holy and also entirely filled with self-knowledge. b. God Knows All Things Actual. The definition also says that God knows "all things actual.” This means all things that exist and all things that happen. This applies to creation, for God is the one before whom “no creature is hidden from his sight, but all are naked and exposed to the eyes of him to whom we must give account” (Heb. 4:13; cf. 2 Chron. 16:9; Job 28:24; Matt. 10:29–30). God also knows the future, for he is the one who can say, “I am God, and there is none like me, declaring the end from the beginning and from ancient times things not yet done” (Isa. 46:9–10; cf. 42:8–9 and frequent passages in the Old Testament prophets). He knows the tiny details of every one of our lives, for Jesus tells us, “Your Father knows what you need before you ask him” (Matt. 6:8), and “Even the hairs of your head are all numbered” (Matt. 10:30). In Psalm 139 David reflects on the amazing detail of God’s knowledge of our lives. He knows our actions and thoughts: “O LORD, you have searched me and known me! You know when I sit down and when I rise up; you discern my thoughts from afar” (Ps. 139:1–2). He knows the words we will say before they are spoken: “Even before a word is on my tongue, behold, O LORD, you know it altogether” (Ps. 139:4). And he knows all the days of our lives even before we are born: “Your eyes saw my unformed substance; in your book were written, every one of them, the days that were formed for me, when as yet there was none of them” (Ps. 139:16).

PART 37 JUSTICE JUDGEMENT & THE END OF PERPS

2 Kings 17:11

There they burned incense on all the high places, as the nations did whom the LORD had carried away before them. And they did wicked things to provoke the LORD to anger, Woe to them! For they have gone in the way of Cain, have run greedily after the error of Balaam for a reward, and perished in the rebellion of Korah.

¹² These are the ones who are stains on your love feasts as they feast with you irreverently and care only for themselves. They are clouds without water, carried along by winds; autumn trees without fruit, twice dead, uprooted; ¹³ raging waves of the sea, which are foaming up their own shame; wandering stars for whom the gloom of darkness has been kept forever.

¹⁴ Enoch, the seventh generation from Adam, also prophesied of these men, saying, "Look! The Lord is coming with ten thousand of His holy ones, ¹⁵ to execute judgment on everyone, and to convict all who are godless of all their wicked deeds that they have committed, and of all the terrible words that godless sinners have spoken against Him." ¹⁶ These men are grumblers, complainers, who walk after their own lusts. Their mouths speak arrogant words, and they flatter others to gain profit.

And I heard another from the altar saying:

"Yes, Lord God Almighty, true and righteous are Your judgments."

The Walls Come Down Mike THE BREAKING NEWS WASN'T ABOUT THE CRIMES COMMITTED BY Sandusky. It was all about Penn State, and above all, it was about the iconic Joe Paterno. I was reading the papers and watching the news and trying to keep up with everything just like the rest of the world was. I still have boxes filled with piles of news clips in my office. In addition to the arrest of Sandusky based upon the grand jury's recommendation that they found evidence that he molested eight boys whom he met through the Second Mile, there were charges against Penn State athletic director Tim Curley and Gary Schultz, Penn State's interim senior vice president for finance and business. Schultz was also the one who oversaw the Penn State police. The grand jury found that Curley and Schultz had lied during their testimony with regard to information they had received about a report of sexual abuse involving Sandusky. The two were charged with perjury, which is a felony, and failing to report abuse. The attorney general's office went public now with hotlines set up at their offices and with the state police, asking anyone with information about other possible victims, and asking any other victims themselves, to come forward. It was Mike McQueary's testimony at the grand jury that was possibly the most damning when it came to what was now being viewed as a massive cover-up at Penn State. McQueary, although not initially named in the press and merely referred to as a former graduate assistant, testified that he witnessed Sandusky assaulting a naked boy around ten years old in the shower in 2001. The grand jury called McQueary an "extremely credible witness." Reports said that the witness testified that he had first spoken with his own father and then notified Paterno the next day. Paterno then reported the incident to Curley. In a meeting with Curley and Schultz about a week later, the witness was assured that they would investigate the incident. Paterno was not at the meeting. During the grand jury testimony, Curley called the activity in the shower between the child and Sandusky "horsing around" and also denied that McQueary said it was of a sexual nature. Schultz testified at the grand jury that the allegations proved not to be serious and there was no indication that a crime occurred. He also testified that he was aware that Sandusky had been investigated for similar allegations in 1998. University president Graham Spanier said he knew nothing of a 1998 investigation. It wasn't a week after Sandusky's arrest that both Spanier and Paterno were fired. Although neither Paterno nor Spanier was charged in the case (unlike Curley and Schultz), there were far too many questions about the fact that Spanier and Paterno had knowledge of Sandusky's alleged sexual abuse and failed to act in a way that could have stopped him. Spanier was saying that Curley and Schultz would be proven innocent and I was wondering how he could possibly support these two guys who were covering it all up. The campus seemed to go into a state of shock. Thousands of students lined the streets, blowing vuvuzelas and air horns, and pumping their fists in the air chanting, "We want Joe!" Cops in riot gear were sending out clouds of pepper spray and trying to hold them back as the students toppled a news van, knocked down street signs and trash cans, and set off firecrackers. It looked like a war zone.

1 I will give thanks to You, O Lord, with my whole heart;

I will declare all Your marvelous works.

2 I will be glad and rejoice in You;

I will sing praise to Your name, O Most High.

3 When my enemies are turned back,
they will stumble and perish at Your presence.

4 For You have maintained my right and my cause;
You sat on the throne judging what is right.

5 You have rebuked the nations,

You have destroyed the wicked,

You have wiped out their name forever and ever.

6 O you enemy, destructions have come to you for a perpetual end.

You have destroyed cities;
 their memory perished with them.
 7 But the Lord remains forever;
 He has established His throne for judgment.
 8 He will judge the world in righteousness;
 He will give judgment to the peoples in uprightness.
 9 The Lord also will be a refuge for the oppressed,
 a refuge in times of trouble.
 10 Those who know Your name will put their trust in You, for You, Lord, have not forsaken those who seek You.
 11 Sing praises to the Lord who dwells in Zion;
 declare His deeds among the people.
 12 He who avenges deaths remembers them;
 He does not forget the cry of the humble.
 13 Be gracious to me, O Lord; consider my trouble from those who hate me,
 O You who lifts me up from the gates of death,
 14 that I may recount all Your praise
 in the gates of the daughter of Zion, that I may rejoice in Your salvation.
 15 The nations have sunk down in the pit that they made;
 their own foot is caught in the net which they hid.
 16 The Lord is known by the judgment that He executes;
 the wicked one is snared in the work of his own hands. Meditation. Selah 17 The wicked will be turned to Sheol, and all the nations that forget God.
 18 For the needy will not always be forgotten,
 nor will the hope of the poor perish forever.
 19 Arise, O Lord, may mortals not prevail;
 let the nations be judged in Your sight.
 20 Put them in fear, O Lord, that the nations themselves may know they are mortals. Selah

...men and women into a superior race. In times past, suggested Darré, each farmer had picked just one son—the strongest, toughest and most courageous—to inherit his land. As a result, only the very fittest had farmed the fields over generations, creating a superior human bloodline. Himmler agreed with this analysis. “The yeoman on his own acre,” he once observed piously, “is the backbone of the German people’s strength and character.”

Only in this way, Himmler believed, could the SS breed a new master race; Germany’s future depended on this. “Should we succeed in establishing this Nordic race again from and around Germany,” he later observed in a speech to SS leaders, “and inducing them to become farmers and from this seedbed produce a race of 200 million, then the world will belong to us.”

This scheme was known as the Lebensborn or ‘Fountain of Life’ program. Special clinics were set up where SS men¹ were encouraged to mate with blue-eyed, blonde Nordic girls who had no Jewish ancestry, in order to produce ‘racially pure’ German offspring. The resultant babies were then brought up in the foster care of dedicated Nazi couples or reared in special orphanages.

There were at least ten Lebensborn homes in Germany,² and nine in Nazi-occupied Norway, where the unmarried pregnant women could give birth in secret away from their homes.³ The babies were christened in a ritual in which an SS dagger was held over them as the mother swore allegiance to Nazi ideology.⁴ If any of the children born into the program were disabled, they were killed or sent to concentration camps.⁵

Derleth. Schuler was convinced of the importance of what he called 'pure blood' and was strongly anti-Semitic. Both men belonged to a group that aspired to turn Munich into the centre of 'cosmic consciousness'. Their goal was to replace the existing political, social and religious structure of the world with 'the Urheimat [original home] of the soul'.

Derleth subscribed to an even more bizarre belief system than Schuler. He was convinced that Schuler's séances were 'black magic rituals' and his own megalomania soon led to his notorious Proclamations, in which he declared the imminent arrival of 'Christus Imperator Maximus'. This coming saviour of the world wanted 'death-hardened troops for the conquest of the globe'. The last sentence of the Proclamations became notorious: 'soldiers, I deliver unto you for plundering – the world!' His 'Reich of Christ the king' found few disciples but his ideas were widely publicized in Munich and were mentioned favourably by the Schwabinger Beobachter, the newspaper of the local Bohemian community.

Eckart nurtured Hitler carefully and initiated him into a range of occult ideas and practices. He introduced him to three magical orders: the Thule Group, the Armanen Order and the Vril Society. From them Hitler learned the techniques of occult concentration, of visualization and of developing the power to direct his will to influence events and other people.

The name 'vril' came from a novel written in 1871 by the English writer Lord Lytton. In addition to being a popular novelist Lytton was also a Freemason, a Rosicrucian and a dabbler in magic and the occult. Lytton's novel The Coming Race was set in a world where an advanced species lived beneath the earth in large caverns. They had developed the use of an energy form called vril which enabled them to be not just simply human but equal to the gods themselves. One day, Lytton told his readers, they would emerge from the bowels of the earth and rule the planet. His novel paints a disturbing picture of a totalitarian and racist society. He wrote about his subterranean dwellers: I arrived at the conclusion that this people – though originally not only of our human race but descended from the same ancestors as the great Aryan family – had yet now developed into a distinct species with which it was impossible that any community in the upper world could amalgamate. And that if they ever emerged from those nether recesses into the light of day, they would destroy and overcome our existent varieties of man. Lytton's novel ends with the gloomy conclusion, 'I pray that ages yet elapse before there emerges into sunlight our inevitable destroyers.'

The Vril Society believed that vril was a force which if controlled could be used as a means of acquiring spiritual enlightenment, to heal people or to dominate the wills of others. They also believed that vril could be used to influence events on the material plane by concentrating the willpower while it was focused into a kind of laser beam through a combination of visualization and directed emotion. The final link in the chain was establishing a means of communicating with the Secret Chiefs and harnessing their powers.

literally true and that vril power could help to create an Aryan super race. Tibetans were also invited to join the Society because of Haushofer's belief that Agharti lay within their country. The Society's members believed that they had acquired knowledge of vril power and could become as powerful as the underground dwellers. Ley revealed that they had developed 'a whole system of internal gymnastics' by which the control of vril power could be achieved. He described how the Society invited members from across the world to assist them in researching and developing Aryan supermen.

On that day he went to the Feldherrnhalle in Munich and at 10 pm took part in his joining ritual. At this ceremony he swore an oath of perpetual and unconditional loyalty to Hitler. One SS man described the scene: Tears came to my eyes when, by the light of the torches, thousands of voices repeated the oath in chorus. It was like a prayer.

Those who went to Wewelsburg were no longer bound by ordinary human ties but had their own loyalty to the brotherhood, an all-consuming passion to serve it and to cherish and follow its ideals. Wewelsburg was the cathedral where the senior 'priests' of Himmler's dark religion came to engage in their worship and be indoctrinated more deeply into the mythological universe he inhabited. They attempted to achieve a state of 'rapture' in which they could communicate with the Secret Chiefs, of whose wisdom they believed themselves to be the guardians.

There was considerable activity within the occult field in Nazi Germany, even if most of it did take place underground. Himmler actually remarked that 'science' would soon be replaced by 'geheimwissenschaft' – 'occult science'. The ultimate goal of the illuminated National Socialists went far beyond the simple military and political domination of the world. In the same way their obsession with the creation of an Aryan Master Race went far beyond simple racism and into areas that read like the imaginings of a science fiction novelist. The whole focus of the occult aspects of Nazism was geared towards realizing what they saw as the next stage of human evolution and the creation of the 'New Man' who would be as far above the Aryans as in their eyes they were already above all other humans. Hitler and Himmler worked tirelessly towards achieving the triumph of the 'New Man' to a greater degree than any other Nazi leaders. As Hitler said: Creation is not yet completed. All creative forces will be concentrated on a new species. The two types of man, the old and the new, will evolve rapidly in different directions. One will disappear from the face of the Earth, the other will flourish.

Hitler also claimed that: 'Man is becoming God – that is the simple fact. Man is God in the making.' All the various occult techniques that Himmler in particular employed created a fanatical autohypnosis which convinced disciples, succumbing to the totalitarian discipline in the promise of reaching a transcendent reality, that they were the new men the age was waiting for, that they were endowed with a secret energy which would enable them to take over Germany and the world. The 'New Man' visualized by Hitler had developed his psychic powers to their fullest extent. He would not only be physically stronger and intellectually superior but his psychic and spiritual development would raise him to the level of a divine being. The New Man would have mastered the secrets of time travel and be able to visit the distant past and the remote future with equal ease. He would possess an enhanced imagination that allowed him to perceive and understand everything instantly without the need for rational thought or a careful evaluation of facts. His 'superclairvoyance' would enable him to see everything and know the innermost thoughts of everyone. The power of 'magical speech' was given to him and this power would enable him to control all lesser beings. Other humans, even spirits, the weather and the atoms of the universe would all be subject to his controlling will. These 'new men' were described by Hitler as 'the final state in human mutation – the Man God!' As well as all of these powers the New Man would also be physically different from existing humans. He would be a giant in size and strength and his pineal gland would be so highly developed that it would be visible as a literal third eye. Hitler referred to it as the 'Cyclops eye' and declared: A new age of magic interpretation of the world is coming, of interpretation in terms of the will and not the intelligence. There is no such thing as truth, either in the moral or in the scientific sense. The New Man would be the antithesis of the Jew.

Hitler and the Nazis seized on the German people's longing for a saviour, a renewed sense of pride in their nation and a desire for a common purpose. They took these emotions and distorted them utterly, deceiving their fellow Germans into worshipping a psychopathic dictator and turning national pride into a sense of shame as the German people finally awoke too late to the horrors that had been perpetrated in their name and to the utter perversion of all normal moral values. For twelve astonishing years Germany turned its back upon rationality and compassion and gave its allegiance to a man and a movement that plumbed new depths of human depravity. The spiritual impulses of millions were perverted into the dark worship of a brutal madman and his irrational vision of the world.

¹⁹ Then I saw the beast and the kings of the earth with their armies gathered to wage war against Him who sat on the horse and against His army. ²⁰ But the beast was captured and with him the false prophet who worked signs in his presence, by which he deceived those who received the mark of the beast and those who worshipped his image. These two were thrown alive into the lake of fire that burns with brimstone. ²¹ The remnant were slain with the sword which proceeded out of the mouth of Him who sat on the horse. And all the birds gorged themselves with their flesh.

PART 38 appendix

“People not familiar with biblical eschatology may find this idea fantastic, that the being who becomes the Antichrist was once alive, then was dead, and returns from the grave to rule the Novus Ordo Seclorum. But this is exactly what Revelation 17:8 appears to say will happen: “The beast that thou sawest was, and is not; and shall ascend out of the bottomless pit, and go into perdition [Apoleia,]: and they that dwell on the earth shall wonder... when they behold the beast that was, and is not, and yet is.” Further, the mythos of the Eye of Horus on the Great Seal, which so fascinated Wallace and company, represents this very concept of deity incarnation into the “King” that is to rule. As mentioned earlier in this blog series, in ancient Egypt where this Great Seal symbol originated, each Pharaoh “became” the incarnation of the falcon god Horus during his lifetime, and at death, the Osiris—the divine judge of the netherworld.

As biotechnology and synthetic biology advance to the degree that we can now realistically anticipate reviving long-dead species, I have been able to convince a few scholarly minds that the Man of Sin could in fact be the return of a deceased Apollo/Osiris/Nimrod who arrives via biotech resurrection. Even Chuck Missler, though not with the same details, raised the appropriate question not long ago in an online article about the Antichrist: “Could it be that this final world dictator will be, in some sense, a return of Nimrod?” In my opinion, this is more than a possibility, and I remember with curiosity how in 1998, Zahi Hawass, the current Secretary General of Egypt’s Supreme Council of Antiquities, claimed to have found the burial tomb of the god Osiris (Apollo/Nimrod) at the Giza Plateau. In the article Sandpit of Royalty from the newspaper Extra Bladet (Copenhagen), January 31, 1999, Hawass was quoted saying:

“I have found a shaft, going 29 meters vertically down into the ground, exactly halfway between the Chefred Pyramid and the Sphinx. At the bottom, which was filled with water, we have found a burial chamber with four pillars. In the middle is a large granite sarcophagus, which I expect to be the grave of Osiris, the god...I have been digging in Egypt’s sand for more than 30 years, and up to date this is the most exciting discovery I have made.... We found the shaft in November and began pumping up the water recently. So several years will pass before we have finished investigating the find.” [5]

Insofar as we know this discovery did not ultimately provide the physical remains of the deity. Of course, that is, in as far as we know. But what it did illustrate is that at least some very powerful Egyptologists believe Osiris was a historical figure, and that his body was stored somewhere at or near the Great Pyramid. Manly P. Hall, who knew the Masonic legend of Hiram Abiff was a thinly veiled prophecy of the resurrection of Osiris, seems to have understood what Zahi Hawass was looking for, and why. Consider that he wrote in The Secret Teachings of All Ages:

“The Dying God shall rise again! The secret room in the House of the Hidden Places shall be rediscovered. The Pyramid again shall stand as the ideal emblem of solidarity, inspiration, aspiration, resurrection, and regeneration. [6]

Over the years, biblical scholar Gary Stearman has written extensively about Nimrod (Apollo/Osiris/Gilgamesh) and the connection this historical figure has with Babylonian Mystery Religion, Watchers, Nephilim (including their resurrection), and the spirit of the end-times Antichrist and revival of paganism. He too appears to believe the coming of Antichrist represents a return of Nimrod. “But who is this Assyrian,” he asked in the July 2001 Prophecy in the News Magazine, “He is none other than the spiritual inheritor of the first great post-Flood religious apostasy. He is the keeper of the great heritage that began at the Assyrian capital, Nineveh. Its founder was Nimrod.... He is the Antichrist, the future despot who comes in the name of the ancient mystery religion.”

A year earlier, in June of 2000, Stearman had written in Prophecy in the News concerning Nimrod:

“He was a rebel who allowed himself to be worshipped as a god. After the Flood, his rebellion became the foundation of mankind’s greatest religious apostasy. Down through the generations, this system of false worship became known simply as the “Babylonian Mystery Religion.”

Its basis is quite clear. It attempts to channel the power of the ancient gods through the figure of one, powerful man. Nimrod became that god...” [emphasis].

Alexander Hislop in his classic text The Two Babylons substantiates Stearman’s thesis that the Babylonian Mystery Religion was based on the worship of Nimrod. “It was to glorify Nimrod that the whole Chaldean system of iniquity was formed,” he wrote (p.20). Yet Stearman sees that the Mystery Religion continued secretly through the ages, shrouded in hiding by adepts of the occult in anticipation of a final moment when the ancient spirit should be awakened.

“...corrupt priesthoods have flourished, carrying with them the shadow of Nimrod and his ancient mysteries. Their inner secrets have been known by various names, including alchemy, magic, sorcery, conjuring, soothsaying and so forth.... waiting for the prophesied day when it would rise once again. This movement will result in the reign of the Antichrist.”

In addition to the supernatural aspects that biotechnology could provide the Luciferian technology to resurrect Nimrod/Apollo/Osiris in the person of the last days Man of Sin, the ramifications of using the same science to revive extinct animals, Nephilim, or to create newly engineered versions of demigods and mythological animals may also play a role in the Kingdom of Antichrist. This is because as interbreeding begins between transgenic animals, genetically modified humans, and specie as God made them, the altered DNA will quickly migrate into the natural environment, and when that happens (as is already occurring among genetically modified plants and animals), ‘alien’ and/or animal characteristics will be introduced to the human gene pool and spread through intermarriage, altering the human genetic code and eventually eliminating humanity as we know it. This is what happened before the Great Flood according to many theologians, and perhaps that has been the whole idea for the end-times as well—to create a generation of genetically altered ‘Nimrods’ to serve as ‘fit extensions’ for the resurrection of underworld Nephilim-hordes in preparation of Armageddon.

Does a curious verse in the book of Daniel hint at this? Speaking of the last days of human government, Daniel said:

“...they shall mingle themselves with the seed of men: but they shall not cleave one to another, even as iron is not mixed with clay” (Dan. 2:43).

While Daniel does not explain who they that “mingle themselves with the seed of men” are, the personal pronoun they caused Chuck Missler and Mark Eastman in their book Alien Encounters to ask: “Just what (or who) are ‘mingling with the seed of men?’ Who are these Non-seed? It staggers the mind to contemplate the potential significance of Daniel’s passage and its implications for the future global governance.” [7]

Daniel's verse troubled Missler and Eastman because it seemed to indicate that the same phenomenon that occurred in Genesis chapter 6 where non-human species or 'non-seed' mingled with human seed and produced Nephilim, would happen again in the end times. When this verse from Daniel is coupled with Genesis 3:15, which says, "And I will put enmity between thee and the woman, and between thy seed [zera,] and her seed," an incredible tenant emerges—that Satan has seed, and that it is at enmity with Christ.

To 'mingle' non-human seed with Homo sapiens through altering human DNA while simultaneously returning Nephilim to earth has been the inspiration of the spirit of antichrist ever since God during the Great Flood halted the practice. According to Louis Pauwells & Jacques Bergier in The Dawn of Magic (first published in France under the title "Le Matin des Magiciens" 1960 by Editions Gallimard, Paris), this was certainly the goal of the antichrist Adolf Hitler:

Hitler's aim was neither the founding of a race of supermen, nor the conquest of the world; these were only means towards the realization of the great work he dreamed of. His real aim was to perform an act of creation, a divine operation, the goal of a biological mutation which would result in an unprecedented exaltation of the human race and the "apparition of a new race of heroes and demigods and god-men." [8]

One cannot read the conclusion by Pauwells and Bergier regarding Hitler's antichrist ambition without seeing how it corresponds perfectly with the Cumaean Sibyl's prophecy pertaining to the coming of Apollo, who receives "the life of gods, and sees Heroes with gods commingling." This calls to mind that from the Middle Ages forward, church leaders have believed the Antichrist would ultimately represent the return of the Nephilim—the reunion of demons with humans. St. Augustine himself wrote of such demoniality in the City of God [9], and in the De Daemonialitate, et Incubis, et Succubi, Fr. Ludovicus Maria Sinistrari de Ameno (1622-1701) also perceived the coming of Antichrist as representing the biological hybridization of demons with humans. "To theologians and philosophers," he wrote, "it is a fact, that from the copulation of humans with the demon...Antichrist must be born." [10]" from <https://www.auricmedia.net/nimrods-tomb-found-cloning-of-nimrod-and-osiris-underway/>

"They ignored the Nazi camps, they just couldn't believe that such atrocities and evil could be done.....I contend with the coming of the antichrist and the 'chosen ones' troops of antichrist they will.....make the Nazi camps look like a picnic." rd

"For then will be great tribulation, such as has not happened since the beginning of the world until now, no, nor ever shall be.

²² “Unless those days were shortened, no one would be saved. But for the sake of the elect those days will be shortened. ²³ Then if anyone says to you, ‘Look, here is the Christ,’ or ‘There He is,’ do not believe it. ²⁴ For false christs and false prophets will arise and show great signs and wonders to deceive, if possible, even the elect. ²⁵ Listen, I have told you beforehand.

²⁶ “So, if they say to you, ‘Look, He is in the desert,’ do not go there; or, ‘Look, He is in the private chambers,’ do not believe it. ²⁷ For as the lightning comes from the east and flashes to the west, so will be the coming of the Son of Man. ²⁸ Wherever the carcass is, there the eagles will be gathered together....

Suicide of the Mind Jan 22nd, 2009 Blood IS My veins are the syringe. The knife slices, the syringe pushes. Blood dots, drips. Emotion-filled bubbles and rivulets that bleed out the pain, a freeing, induced euphoria of relief of one single emotion... pain. Physical pain. It is all there is. The blackness, the fear, and the despair. It all fades away into nothing. Tears dry on my cheeks, my breath slows, my heartbeat slows and I lean my head back, greedily letting the stinging pain from each slice in my skin wash away all of what was before they were carved. I'm thinking about death. Not in the abstract, but in the now. I want it to end. I want to end. The long stretch of living and breathing and surviving is over. All those days when I did not think of dying are forgotten. Right now, I desperately want to die, to find the peace that eludes me, to quell the fear that has lurked in the back of my mind and found the door to push through and swamp every recess, every dark corner until it is all there is.

Rivers, Avah. The Shadows That Hide Me: Living with Dissociative Identity Disorder (pp. 71-72). Kindle Edition.

English theologian George Hawkins Pember, in his 1876 masterpiece, Earth's Earliest Ages, analyzed the prophecy of Jesus Christ that says the end times would be a repeat of "the days of Noah." Pember outlined the seven great causes of the antediluvian destruction and documented their developmental beginnings in his lifetime. The seventh and most fearful sign, Pember wrote, would be the return of the spirits of Nephilim, "the appearance upon earth of beings from the Principality of the Air, and their unlawful intercourse with the human race." Jesus Himself, in answering His disciples concerning the signs of His coming and of the end of the world, said it would be "as the days of Noah were" (Matthew 24:37). The implication is, just as it was before the Flood when the spirits of Nephilim were powerful upon earth (Genesis 6:4), mankind would experience an end-times renaissance of the influence of these entities. From Scripture we are made to understand that the purpose of this latter-day wave of supernaturalism includes deception (2 Timothy 3:13), and the effect upon mankind would be so successful that heresy and delusion would become firmly entrenched—even within institutionalized Christianity. In writing of this scenario,

Paul prophesied to Timothy that “in the latter times, some shall depart from the faith, giving heed to seducing spirits, and doctrines of devils” (1 Timothy 4:1). Based on contemporary developments, the foretold increase in demonism and its influence within secular and religious society is rapidly unfolding in this century—abruptly, dramatically, and suspiciously. Biblical scholar Gary Stearman agrees, stating in disturbing language how the manifestation of these powers is quickening now because the world is under conditions “in which the influence of God’s Holy Spirit is diminishing.”[71] This is apparent not only in metaphysics, but within science and technology, where genetic engineering and transhumanist aspirations seem literally hellbent on repeating what the Watchers did in giving birth to the spirits of Nephilim as in the days of Noah.

PREEMPTOR

The enemy takes advantage of our weakness for idolatry and brings many opportunities for idol worship our way. He uses the media, which is controlled by the Antichrist spirit, to draw attention to and glorify these heaven gods of self gratification and sin. Most people, including Christians, watch several hours of television each day where beautiful people act out fictional stories in which they triumph over every obstacle or tragedy without prayer or the help of God. Eventually, over time, many Christians who possibly spend a short devotional time with God every morning but spend their entire evening watching TV, lose interest in God. Many times it isn't until some great tragedy comes into our life that we get back into a more sincere pursuit of God. Then, alas, when things start going well again, we often fall back into our lax spiritual life and God needs to permit another difficulty to come our way to draw us back again. Our verse states that these heathen gods will be "acknowledged and increased with glory" and that he (the Antichrist in my interpretation) will "cause them to rule over many, and shall divide the land for gain." There is no doubt that our hearts and minds are being seduced towards evil by the movies and TV programs we watch and the music we listen to. Satanic cults believe that good is evil and evil is good. Subtly we find ourselves accepting this in the carefully crafted stories and songs that exalt sin. If you take time to notice, most movies have something immoral in them that has nothing to do with the storyline. We watch these movies anyway. Many songs played in our stores and offices, to say nothing of the radio stations broadcasting into homes and automobiles, are glorifying adultery. Movie stars and recording artists become people's gods and they are so acknowledged and glorified that their sinful ways, once considered taboo, have become something to be emulated. This causes these false gods to rule over many people. Romans 6:16 states, "Don't you realize that whatever you choose to obey becomes your master?" (NLT) This is how the Antichrist spirit is able to rule over people and even overtake a nation. The more we engage in sin, the more we become enslaved by it. This leads us to 2 Thes 2:7-12 that I believe describes where we are in our nation at this time: For this lawlessness is already at work secretly, and it will remain secret until the one who is holding it back steps out of the way. Then the man of lawlessness will be revealed whom the Lord Jesus will consume with the breath of his mouth and destroy by the splendor of his coming. This evil man will come to do the work of Satan with counterfeit power and signs and miracles He will use every kind of wicked deception to fool those who are on their way to destruction because they refuse to believe the truth that would save them. So God will send great deception upon them, and they will believe all these lies. Then they will be condemned for not believing the truth and for enjoying the evil they do.

Dan 11:17 He shall also set his face to enter with the strength of his whole kingdom, and upright ones with him; thus shall he do: and he shall give him the daughter of women, corrupting her: but she shall not stand on his side, neither be for him. There is a perpetually higher price to be paid if one wants to continue getting the Devil's powers. What worked last week won't work this week. If killing a rabbit brought power last week, one must kill two rabbits this week to get the same amount of power so to speak. So far we have only talked about power gained through abuse, but there also must be death in their rituals. After the living creature is killed, everyone in attendance at the ritual must eat part of the animal's flesh and drink its blood. At some point the Devil is not satisfied with the death of an animal or multiple animals and wants a human sacrifice. It is often the baby of one of the cult members that gets sacrificed. It is not unusual for drugs to be administered to the mother causing premature birth so the child can be sacrificed before the pregnancy is as noticeable as it would be in the last few weeks. In this verse we don't see human sacrifice but we do see the demons demanding this perpetrator do more if he is to get the power he needs to get out of his predicament. The demon wants to expand his kingdom (enter with the strength of his whole kingdom). The demon is not satisfied that he has completely taken over the perpetrator's soul. He wants to expand his kingdom to those innocent persons around the perpetrator (and upright ones with him). The demon will see to it that circumstances arise such that the perpetrator will have the opportunity to sexually abuse an innocent baby or child, in this case a little girl (and he shall give him the daughter of women, corrupting her). The Hebrew word for "corrupting" is frequently used by the prophets in the sense of "to corrupt morally." This little girl will not choose to serve Satan as this perpetrator does (but she shall not stand on his side). She won't want to have anything to do with this abusive man (neither be for him).

WHEN THE RESTRAINER STOPS RESTRAINING THE RAIN KEPT POURING DOWN.

It had been days since south-central Pennsylvania had seen the sun. The trickles ran down hills, forming streams that turned into small rivers, all looking for pools where the water could stop its journey and accumulate. One of those collection pools was Lake Conemaugh—a reservoir created when the South Fork Dam was built in the mid-nineteenth century. Now, decades later, the poor engineering of the dam was about to reveal itself in a disastrous way. On May 31, 1889, the constant downpour finally prevailed. The South Fork Dam burst, sending 3.8 billion gallons of water crashing down the mountain toward unsuspecting Johnstown, Pennsylvania. As the water rushed, it picked up debris—trees, cabins, railroad cars. It also swept up victims as it tore through helpless small towns—South Fork, Mineral Point, and East Conemaugh. When the flood finally reached Johnstown some 57 minutes later, the wall of water and wreckage was 35 feet high and travelling at 40 miles per hour. The destruction was unimaginable. A reported 2,209 people lost their lives that day, including 99 entire families wiped off the face of the earth.¹ All that potential for destruction had been there for years, but it had been restrained by the dam. Once the restrainer was removed, devastation followed. This is the very picture that Paul presents in 2 Thessalonians 2. There is a restrainer in place right now, held secure by the Lord. But it will not remain there forever. A time is coming when the restrainer will be removed. On that day, people had better run for high ground, because devastation is about to pour down THE COMING APOSTASY Great confusion surrounds Paul's words in 2 Thessalonians 2. There is little doubt that he is talking about the end times and the coming of the Antichrist. It's the timing of the passage's events that creates the debate. The origin of the uncertainty resides less in Paul's words than in how people read them. Many, however, don't read as far as they should. Paul began, "Now, brethren, concerning the coming of our Lord Jesus Christ and our gathering together to Him, we ask you, not to be soon shaken in mind or troubled, either by spirit or by word or by letter, as if from us, as though the day of Christ had come" (verses 1-2). A rumor was spreading, saying that Christ had returned, and the Thessalonians had somehow been left behind. Paul told them, "Don't worry, folks. It's all fake news." He encouraged them not to panic or rush to conclusions. There is an order of events that must occur before the return of Christ. The day is approaching, but it's not here yet. Up to this point, everyone seems to agree on what is said in the passage. The problem comes when some people read just one more verse, then stop. This premature halt leaves them with a thoroughly wrong conclusion. Paul wrote, "Let no one deceive you by any means; for that Day will not come unless the falling away comes first" (2 Thessalonians 2:3). Jesus will not return until there is a falling away. The Greek word here is apostasia, which gives us the English word apostasy. There are some who say that this word refers to the rapture, which makes no sense linguistically or logically.

Something is restraining, and something is being restrained. That's the first time this is mentioned. Let's read on: "For the mystery of lawlessness is already at work; only He who now restrains will do so until He is taken out of the way. And then the lawless one will be revealed" (verses 7-8). Notice the timing in these verses. Lawlessness is already at work. This is happening in the present time. The restraining one is now restraining and will continue to do so. However, at some point in the future, that restrainer will be removed, and the restraining will end. Once the restraining ends, the Antichrist will be revealed. That's why we've got to read the whole passage. The best way to study the Bible is to let the Bible explain the Bible. Paul made it clear that there is one reason the Antichrist is not being revealed right this very moment: The restrainer has not yet been removed.

INTRODUCTION

On a more personal level, technology's effects are more mixed. As we've seen over the second half of this book, technology is enabling and accelerating individualism on every level: the jobs and companies we create and where we work, the art and entertainment we create and consume, the relationships we have with other people and organizations. Whether it's the photos, books, blogs, and music we make and share or the new business ventures we attempt, technology is allowing us to be more creative. It's also lessening our dependence on social institutions such as marriage and religion by allowing us to seek out and form our own social circles more tailored to our own interests.

Continued Experimentation Human experimentation continued with psychological experiments such as Project MKUltra which was a foray into testing different methods of mind control. The CIA claims to have shut down the project in 1973, but conspiracy theorists have attempted to show evidence that it is ongoing. Look out for the next book in this series which will focus on MKUltra. This book is only the tip of the iceberg. I encourage you to conduct your own research. The rabbit hole is broad, but deep.

Are people disappearing? No, rather it is the death of man. Personality is gone. We are reminded of American artists such as Edward Hopper who also painted that awful, terrible loneliness. Or we recall Nevil Shute's On the Beach, which pictured the world after the bombs have fallen and men have died. The scene is powerful: the lights are still burning, the generators are still running, but there's nobody there. It's an awful loneliness that Shute depicts. But what he is saying is something more profound than that we live in an age of potential nuclear destruction. He is saying, "Don't you understand? This is where man really is today, whether the bombs fall or not, because there's no final purpose to his existence." There is death in the city of man. And if we are really alive to the issues of our own day we should at least understand as well as the unbelieving poets, writers, painters, and the others that this is the real dilemma: there's death in the city—death in the city of man.

This notion of valuing lives equally is not a throwback to an idealistic, egalitarian philosophy but rather one that resonates among many people. Consider billionaires Mark Zuckerberg and his wife, Priscilla Chan. Their open letter to their newborn daughter stated, "We believe all lives have equal value, and that includes the many more people who will live in future generations than live today." <https://www.marketplace.org/2020/04/23/how-much-is-a-human-life-worth/>

What is the value of your life?

Why do we abhor murder?

Why do we bury our dead?

Why do some humans destroy other humans?

Why do some humans destroy themselves?

Chapter 13 Covered "No weapon formed against you shall prosper, and every tongue which rises against you in judgment you shall condemn. This is the heritage of the servants of the LORD, and their righteousness is from Me," says the LORD. ISAIAH 54:17, NKJV

In March of 2009, I received the assignment I had wanted all along: a deployment to Iraq. As I've mentioned, a SEAL team is broken up into smaller groups. A team has various task units. Within task units are platoons. Platoons get divided even further into fire teams consisting of four men each. When the SEAL team is ready to deploy, its component groups will often be sent to different places. Some members of our team went to Afghanistan, Yemen, and the Philippines. My group headed to Iraq. Much of our assignment involved capturing terrorist leaders. Multiple sources in the field tracked known bad guys, and they would feed us intelligence on the location of those terrorists. Our job was to follow that information and apprehend the terrorists. We never went out on an assignment planning to kill. Our preference was always to take the terrorists alive. Not only was that the proper method, but it also benefited the war effort because captured terrorists could become a source of great information for us. It was common to capture someone who would immediately offer or gladly accept our request for intelligence on other terrorists—in exchange for catching a break from us. Most feared for their lives, and while we had no intent to kill them, that fear gave us an advantage in negotiations. Capturing a terrorist often led to follow-on operations. When we apprehended one in his house, he might tell us of another terrorist who lived four houses down from him. We would check with Intelligence to confirm the identity of this second potential target and take steps to make sure we weren't being led into a bad situation, and then we would execute a raid on that person's home and take him, too. Those types of missions were like a two-for-the-price-of-one special. Another aspect of our assignment was going after weapons caches. For example, we would receive a report that bombs were hidden by a riverbank, and we would take explosive ordnance disposal (EOD) personnel with us to investigate. We would set up a security zone and dig for weapons, but more often than not those locations turned out to be what

The Concrete Problem of Evil Historian Philip Friedman provides the following eyewitness account of what happened to a young Jewish girl living in the Warsaw ghetto during the Nazi occupation. Zosia was a little girl . . . the daughter of a physician. During an "action" one of the Germans became aware of her beautiful diamond- like dark eyes. "I could make two rings out of them," he said, "one for myself and one for my wife." His colleague is holding the girl. "Let's see whether they are really so beautiful. And better yet, let's examine them in our hands." Among the buddies exuberant gaiety breaks out. One of the wittiest proposes to take the eyes out. A shrill screaming and the noisy laughter of the soldier-pack. The screaming penetrates our brains, pierces our heart, the laughter hurts like the edge of a knife plunged into our body. The screaming and the laughter are growing, mingling and soaring to heaven. O God, whom will You hear first? What happens next is that the fainting child is lying on the floor. Instead of eyes two bloody wounds are staring. The mother, driven mad, is held by the women. This time they left Zosia to her mother. . . . At one of the next "actions," little Zosia was taken away. It was, of course, necessary to annihilate the blind child.² While philosophers argue endlessly about how precisely to define "evil" in abstract terms, none of us has difficulty recognizing this concrete nightmare as an example of it. At the very least, evil consists of the fact that for far too many people—as for Zosia and her mother, along with six million other Jews during the Holocaust—life becomes a horrifying nightmare from which they cannot awake, a nightmare as full of pain as it is devoid of meaning. Radical evil of this sort cannot be captured in abstract definitions. Indeed, "abstractions . . . distract us from that immediate reality [of evil] and reduce evil to a statistic," as Jeffery Burton Russell suggests.

In this worldview, the only "reason" why Zosia is tortured is because free beings, human and angelic, can will such atrocities. While the sovereign God can and will strive to bring some good out of the horrifying demonic event (Rom 8:28), the evil event itself exists only because free beings who are against God have willed it. The "ultimate reason" for this ghoulis torment lies there. If the words "good" and "loving" mean anything as applied to God, if Scripture's testimony regarding the perfect character of God and the antidemonic ministry of Jesus mean anything, and if God's power is to be construed as supremely admirable, as truly transcendent, not simply as coercive after the impoverished image of fallen human ideals of power, then we simply cannot suppose that it is ultimately God himself who is secretly willing Zosia's nightmare for some supposed "higher" reason. Coping with evil. Where does all this leave us in terms of our coping with the atrocities of our world? Whatever else may be said about the classical-philosophical blueprint model of God's providence, it does provide the believer with a certain kind of security that the warfare worldview seems to lack—so long as one steers clear of concrete atrocities. A certain peace comes, for many at least, in resigning oneself to whatever (one believes) the hand of God might bring to one. Herein lies the appeal of the sort of traditional hymns spoken of in chapter one. If, however, we can no longer find solace in the conviction that a mysterious providential plan governs every event in world history, in what can our hearts find hope? If Zosia's torment is truly as gratuitous and barbaric as it appears, must we not despair? It is, I think, undeniable that the warfare worldview on one level depicts a scarier world than the providential blueprint worldview, for the simple reason that opening one's eyes to the reality of war is indeed scary. At the same time, this prospect strikes some of us as less scary than the prospect of living in an actual spiritual war but being ignorant of this fact. It certainly seems less scary than living in a cosmos that is being coercively run by a supreme being who secretly wills the torture of little girls —"for his glory." Yet even if we were to concede that the genuine contingency and real battles of the warfare worldview present a world that is scarier than the divine blueprint worldview, it would not follow that this worldview is less hopeful than the blueprint model. Precisely the opposite is the case, I would argue. The warfare worldview of the New Testament offers more hope, precisely because it unabashedly acknowledges the dismal and demonic state of the world in its present war-torn condition.

INTRO

The old carnal nature remains in the believer: he is still a sinner, though a saved one. What, then is the young Christian to do? Is he powerless? Must he resort to stoicism, and make up his mind there is naught but a life of defeat before him? Certainly not! The first thing for him to do is to learn the humiliating truth that in himself he is "without strength." It was here that Israel failed: when Moses made known to them the Law they boastfully declared "all that the Lord has said we will do and be obedient" (Exo 24:7). Ah! how little did they realize that "in the flesh there dwelleth no good thing." It was here, too, that Peter failed: he was self-confident and boasted that "though all men be offended because of Thee, yet will I never be offended...though I should die with Thee, yet will I not deny Thee"—how little he knew his own heart. This complacent spirit lurks within each of us. While we cherish the belief we can "do better next time" it is evident that we still have confidence in our own powers. Not until we heed the Saviour's words "without Me ye can do nothing" do we take the first step toward victory. Only when we are weak (in ourselves) are we strong. The believer still has the carnal nature within him, and he has no strength in himself to check its evil propensities, nor to overcome its sinful solicitation. But the believer in Christ also has another nature within him which is received at the new birth: "that which is born of the Spirit is spirit" (Joh 3:6). The believer, then, has two natures within him: one which is sinful, the other which is spiritual. These two natures being totally different in character, are antagonistic to each other. To this antagonism or conflict the apostle referred when he said, "The flesh lusteth against the Spirit, and the Spirit against the flesh" (Gal 5:17). Now which of these two natures is to regulate the believer's life. It is manifest that both cannot, for they are contrary to each other. It is equally evident that the stronger of the two will exert the more controlling power. It is also clear that in the young Christian the carnal nature is the stronger, because he was born with it, and hence it has many years start of the spiritual nature, which he did not receive until he was born again.

Some Joys of Heaven Whereas in the intermediate state the saved are at rest, in the eternal state resurrected believers are actively involved in a new heavenly world. Life there will be anything but boring, as some imagine. Think of the most joyfilled moments in your life. Subtract the sadness that comes when we realize how fleeting our temporal pleasures are. Add the immediate presence of God. Multiply by infinity, and that yields something of what heaven will be like! 1. Believers will experience the joy of a newly created environment unsullied by moral evil (Rev. 21:8, 27; 22:15). The eternal environment after the resurrection and Millennium is new—"a new heaven and a new earth" (2 Peter 3:13). The new world will be redeemed from the curse upon the present earth. There will be no physical darkness; the Lamb will be the light (Rev. 21:23-25; 22:5). In glorified bodies we will enjoy a restored and improved Eden, a place of pristine beauty and unbroken fellowship—a joyful existence with no pain, death, or sorrow (21:2-4). The new heaven and earth will provide an environment conducive to the most precious values we now know—just and loving relationships, fellowship, beauty, and significant activity. 2. Believers will enjoy the new Jerusalem, called by John Gilmore "the ultimate model city." "Those cities which have been winning their fight over crime, crumbling housing, and declining quality education become known as 'model cities.' One city, devoid of detractions, perpetually clean, eternally non-threatening, will be the holy city. John called it 'the new Jerusalem.'"132 Coming down from heaven, it owes its existence to the grace of God rather than the labors of men (Rev. 21:2). "Cities are more than masses of population, they are citadels for mutual safety, conduits of commercial enterprise, and centers of artistic and scientific creativity. The representation of heaven as a city was intended to suggest 'intensity of life, variety of occupation, and closeness of relation to each other.'"133 The joy of heaven will be a group experience. With pain, sorrow, and suffering being eliminated, heaven's joys will be undiluted and unending. The beatitudes of Jesus will be fulfilled. The pure will see God, the poor will possess the imperishable, the persecuted will have losses restored, the deprived will have immediate access to all parts of the renovated earth.134 In the heavenly city we will experience just and loving social relationships. Social justice and shalom will no longer be a mere dream; it will have become a lasting reality. Life will be exciting as together we reign with the Lord in the permanently peaceful kingdom (22:5). The fulfillment of the utopian dreams of the centuries will be fulfilled. Camelot will become a reality. 3. Believers will experience the joy of deathless existence in resurrection bodies. There will be an end to all physical, emotional, and intellectual decline when we experience new, imperishable capabilities in the final triumph over death. Our bodies will become all that God created them to be. There will be no diseases, no surgery, and no pain. The disabled will be restored to a lasting wholeness. Our resurrection bodies will be imperishable. Imagine activity without physical or mental fatigue. Anticipate the joy of freedom from temptation, sin, and the fear of death! 4. We will experience the joy of knowing and loving God maximally. Our ultimate aspirations will be realized when we are at home with our heavenly Father, his Son, and his Spirit. Our highest desires will be satisfied as we love God with our various renewed capacities. Our quest for unmediated experience of the ultimate reality will be satisfied. The joy of unbroken, fulfilling fellowship with our Creator and Redeemer will motivate authentic worship, adoration, and praise (Rev. 21:22). The chief end of sin-dominated humans at present seems to be to enjoy themselves forever. But of course that is ridiculous. The closer we come to the essence of heaven, the less we'll be aware of ourselves, our surroundings, and our activities; the more there will be of our love, worship, and communion with him. There is another place for those who would forget God for themselves. And this is what Dante is saying: in heaven all our activity will be directed toward God; our enjoyment will be in him. Heaven will be Immanuel—God with us. And that will be the best.135 5. We will experience also the joy of fellowship with all other believers. As we love God we are not absorbed into the divine being, losing our identity in the process (as Eastern and process thought supposes). Communion does not mean union. In the heavenly reunion we will recognize one another; but we will no longer be afflicted with egocentricity or pride. The glorious beatific vision of God in heaven will not exclude the communion of the saints. Our distinctness as humans is not accidental nor illusory. God created us for fellowship with himself and for fellowship with other believers in his kingdom eternally. 6. As distinct, recognizable persons, we will retain our gender and ethnic characteristics. Jesus did not say that we would cease to be male or female when he taught that resurrected people would not marry or be given in marriage (Luke 20:35-36). Gender is part of who we are as persons. Male characteristics helped to identify Moses and Elijah at the Transfiguration (Matt. 17:3). Jesus' appearance and voice in his resurrected body were recognizably male.The God who loves variety in rocks, flowers, and animals will not reduce the saints to an unrecognizable mass. Racial characteristics will be recognizable as part of our identities, but our fleshly pride in them will be transcended. We will experience the joy of loving our ethnically different neighbors as ourselves and the joy of endlessly multiplying friendships. 7. Saints will populate heaven with renewed intellectual, emotional, and volitional abilities. Our lifelong pursuit of truth will find gratifying fulfillment. “Now I know in part; than I shall know fully, even as I am fully known” (1 Cor. 13:12). In heaven self-knowledge and self-assessment will fully function. Since we will then experience God’s presence immediately, secondhand learning of God will not be needed (v. 8b). “Now we see but a poor reflection as in a mirror; then we shall see face to face” (v. 12). First-century mirrors gave mediocre portrayals of the real thing. But with transformed minds sharpened, emotions heightened, and wills harmoniously controlled, we will learn from the Supreme Teacher himself. In heaven we will no longer need teachers or Bibles. We will not be limited to brief accounts about Jonah, David, Peter, or Paul; we will be able to talk to these godly heroes directly. And better still, we will be able to visit and share with our Lord Jesus Christ!

SONG

³For we ourselves were also once foolish, disobedient, deceived, serving various lusts and pleasures, living in malice and envy, hateful and hating one another. ⁴But when the kindness and the love of God our Savior toward man appeared, ⁵not by works of righteousness which we have done, but according to His mercy He saved us, through the washing of regeneration and renewing of the Holy Spirit, ⁶whom He poured out on us abundantly through Jesus Christ our Savior, ⁷that having been justified by His grace we should become heirs according to the hope of eternal life. Titus 3

Results of Justification

⁵Therefore, since we have been justified by faith, we have peace with God through our Lord Jesus Christ, ²through whom we also have access by faith into this grace in which we stand, and so we rejoice in hope of the glory of God. ³Not only so, but we also boast in tribulation, knowing that tribulation produces patience, ⁴patience produces character, and character produces hope. ⁵And hope does not disappoint, because the love of God is shed abroad in our hearts by the Holy Spirit who has been given to us.

⁶ While we were yet weak, in due time Christ died for the ungodly. ⁷ Rarely for a righteous man will one die. Yet perhaps for a good man some would even dare to die. ⁸ But God demonstrates His own love toward us, in that while we were yet sinners, Christ died for us.

⁹ How much more then, being now justified by His blood, shall we be saved from wrath through Him. ¹⁰ For if while we were enemies, we were reconciled to God by the death of His Son, how much more, being reconciled, shall we be saved by His life. ¹¹ Furthermore, we also rejoice in God through our Lord Jesus Christ, through whom we have now received reconciliation.

Adam and Christ

¹² Therefore as sin came into the world through one man and death through sin, so death has spread to all men, because all have sinned.

¹³ For until the law, sin was in the world. But sin is not counted when there is no law. ¹⁴ Nevertheless death reigned from Adam to Moses, even over those who had not sinned in the likeness of Adam's sin, who was a type of Him who was to come.

¹⁵ But the free gift is not like the trespass. For if through the trespass of one man many died, then how much more has the grace of God and the free gift by the grace of the one Man, Jesus Christ, abounded to many. ¹⁶ The gift is not like the result that came through the one who sinned. For the judgment from one sin led to condemnation, but the free gift, which came after many trespasses, leads to justification. ¹⁷ For if by one man's trespass death reigned through him, then how much more will those who receive abundance of grace and the gift of righteousness reign in life through the One, Jesus Christ.

¹⁸ Therefore just as through the trespass of one man came condemnation for all men, so through the righteous act of One came justification of life for all men. ¹⁹ For just as through one man's disobedience the many were made sinners, so by the obedience of One the many will be made righteous.

²⁰ But the law entered, so that sin might increase, but where sin increased, grace abounded much more, ²¹ so that just as sin reigned in death, grace might reign through righteousness unto eternal life through Jesus Christ our Lord. Romans 5

I. THE NEW LIFE "For God so loved the world, that He gave His only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth in Him should not perish, but have eternal life." - John 3:16 "For ye died, and your life is hid with Christ in God. Christ is our life." - Col. 3:3,4 "We declare unto you the life, the eternal life, which was with the Father, and was manifested unto us. God gave unto us eternal life; and this life is in His Son. He that hath the Son hath the life." - 1 John 1:2,11,12 How glorious, then, is the blessing which every one receives that believes in the Lord Jesus. Not only does there come a change in his disposition and manner of life; he also receives from God out of heaven an entirely new life. He is born anew, born of God: he has passed from death into life. (John 1:12-13; 3:5,7; 5:24; 1 John 3:14; 5:1) This new life is nothing less than Eternal Life. (John 3:15-16,36; 6:40,51; 6:25-26; Romans 6:11,23; 8:2; 1 John 5:12,13) This does not mean, as many suppose, that our life shall now no more die, but shall endure into eternity. No: eternity life is nothing else than the very life of God, the life that He has had in Himself from eternity, and that has been visibly revealed in Christ. This life is now the portion of every child of God. (1 John 1:3; 3:1, 5:11) This life is a life of inconceivable power. Whenever God gives life to a young plant or animal, that life has in itself the power of growth, whereby the plant or animal as of itself becomes large. Life is power. In the new life, that is, in your heart, there is the power of eternity. (John 5:10,28; Heb. 7:16,29; 6:25,26; 2 Cor 7:9; 8:4; Col. 3:3-4; Phil. 4:13) More certain than the healthful growth of any tree or animal is the growth and increase of the child of God, who in reality surrenders himself to the working of the new life.

Heaven: Its Hope We give thanks to the God and Father of our Lord Jesus Christ, praying always for you for the hope which is laid up for you in the heavens. – Colossians 1:3, 5 Many people imagine that anything said about heaven is only a matter of speculation. They talk about heaven much as they would about the air, but there would not have been so much in Scripture on this subject if God had wanted to leave the human race in darkness about it. We are told that Scripture is given by inspiration of God and is profitable for doctrine, for reproof, for correction, for instruction in righteousness, that the man of God may be perfect, thoroughly furnished unto all good works (2 Timothy 3:16-17). What the Bible says about heaven is just as true as what it says about everything else. The Bible is inspired. What we are taught about heaven could not have come to us in any other way than by inspiration. No one knew anything about it except God, so if we want to discover anything about it, we must turn to His Word. Dr. Hodge of Princeton says that the best evidence that the Bible is the Word of God is to be found between its own two covers. It proves itself. Every word of God is pure: he is a shield unto those that put their trust in him. (Proverbs 30:5) In this respect it is like Christ, whose character proclaimed the divinity of His person. Christ showed Himself more than a man by what He did. The Bible shows itself more than a human book by what it says. It is not because the Bible is written with more than human skill, far surpassing Shakespeare or any other human author, or that its knowledge of character and the eloquence it contains are beyond the powers of man that we believe it to be inspired. Men's ideas differ about the extent to which human skill can be carried, but the reason we believe the Bible to be inspired is that it is so simple that even the humblest child of God can comprehend it. The exposition of thy words gives light; it gives understanding unto the simple. (Psalm 119:130) If the proof of its divine origin lay in its wisdom alone, a simple and uneducated man might not be able to believe it. The Lord told Isaiah: I have not spoken in secret in a dark place of the earth. Not without substance did I say unto the seed of Jacob, Seek ye me [in vain]; I am the LORD who speaks righteousness, who declares things that are right. (Isaiah 45:19) We believe it is inspired because there is nothing in it that could not have come from God. God is wise, and God is good. There is nothing in the Bible that is not wise, and there is nothing in it that is not good. If the Bible had anything in it that was opposed to reason or to our sense of right, then perhaps we might think that it was like all the books in the world that are written merely by men. Like mere human lives, books that are only human have a great deal that is foolish and a great deal that is wrong in them. The life of Christ alone was perfect, being both human and divine. Not one of the other religious volumes, like the Koran, that claims divinity of origin, agrees with common sense. There is nothing at all in the Bible that does not conform to common sense. What it tells us about the world having been destroyed by a deluge and Noah and his family alone being saved is no more extraordinary than what is taught in the schools – that all of the earth and everything on it came out of a ball of fire. It is a great deal easier to believe that man was made after the image of God than to believe, as some young men and women are being taught now, that he is the offspring of a monkey. Like all the other wonderful works of God, this Book bears the sure stamp of its Author. It is like Him. Though man plants the seeds, God makes the flowers, and they are perfect and beautiful like Himself. Men wrote what is in the Bible, but the work is God's, for all scripture is given by inspiration of God (2 Timothy 3:16). As a rule, the more refined people are, the fonder they are of flowers, and the better they are, the more they love the Bible. The fondness for flowers refines people, and the love of the Bible makes them better. All that is in the Bible about God, man, redemption, and a future state agrees with our own ideas of what is right with our reasonable fears and with our personal experiences.

‘THE PAIN, SUFFERING AND THE DAMAGE.....WHY?’

Psalm 38:17

For I am about to fall, and my pain is ever with me.

Psalm 25:18

Look on my pain and misery, and forgive all my sins.

My soul, my soul! I am pained at my very heart. My heart makes a noise in me. I cannot hold my peace, because you have heard,

Job 2:7

So Satan went out from the presence of the LORD and afflicted Job with painful sores from the soles of his feet to the crown of his head.

But evil men and impostors will grow worse and worse, deceiving and being deceived. 2
Timothy 3

And because iniquity shall abound, the love of many shall wax cold. Matthew 24

as Sodom and Gomorrah, and the cities around them in a similar manner to these, having given themselves over to sexual immorality and gone after strange flesh, are set forth as an example, suffering the vengeance of eternal fire. Jude

And the power of the Lord was present to heal the sick. Luke 5

Acts 10:38

how God anointed Jesus of Nazareth with the Holy Spirit and with power, who went about doing good and healing all who were oppressed by the devil, for God was with Him.

Come to Me, all you who labor and are heavy laden, and I will give you rest. Jesus Matthew 11

“If the Church (and any believer) would come in out of the dead dry cold subnormalism of its current condition, repent, embrace Jesus and all of His word and works.....launch out in faith filled prayers and the full ministry of healing...millions would show up for help and seek the Savior andthe healing flowing from Him would come /Isaiah 58.” RD

An additional benefit that can come out of the healing of brokenness is that the recipient often develops a heart for such ministry to others. Many of my ministry colleagues have moved from experiencing healing themselves to a compassionate ministry to others. This is in keeping with 2 Corinthians 1:4, which says, “[God] helps us in all our troubles, so that we are able to help others who have all kinds of troubles, using the same help that we ourselves have received from God.” The fact that we have received help from God is a powerful motivator to help others who are hurting. Those who have themselves been healed of deep hurts are usually very effective in ministry, even when their own healing is still incomplete. Out of our pain and the healing we receive, we can offer hope to others that their struggle will be worth it. Healing the Whole Person Deep-level healing is about the whole person in at least two ways. First, it aims to make people who are hurting whole again. This entire book deals with that subject. This first section, however, focuses on wholeness in the second sense—the fact that we need to deal with the whole person when we seek to bring about deep-level healing. People are not simply a collection of various parts. Each part of a person is intricately connected to many other parts so that all function together. For the sake of analysis, we can speak about human spirit, body, mind, emotions, personality and will; but in real life, all of these come as one unit in each person; they do not function separately and should not be dealt with in isolation from each other as is usually done by health professionals. If we have physical pain, we are likely to go to a medical doctor who simply treats the physical problem as if it were divorced from the rest of our being. If, then, we have an emotional or psychological difficulty, we go to a psychologist who treats that part of us. For spiritual problems we may go to a pastor or other spiritual advisor. Such approaches to treatment are usually inadequate. Even medical doctors admit that more than 80 percent of physical illnesses spring from emotional problems. “A doctor who works in a mental hospital in Tennessee put it this way, ‘Half of my patients could go home in a week if they knew they were forgiven.’ ”⁶ Yet medical training seldom enables a doctor to deal in any meaningful way with a person’s emotions. He or she has learned simply to function as a “body mechanic.” Likewise, though some psychologists suggest that many emotional difficulties are rooted in spiritual problems, they are seldom able to help in the spiritual area. And, sadly, psychological training programs in Christian institutions differ little from their secular counterparts and frequently teach that it is illegitimate to combine prayer counseling with professional counseling. People are integrated; and when they hurt, they usually need healing in more than one part of their being.

³ Blessed be God, the Father of our Lord Jesus Christ, the Father of mercies, and the God of all comfort, ⁴ who comforts us in all our tribulation, that we may be able to comfort those who are in any trouble by the comfort with which we ourselves are comforted by God. ⁵ As the sufferings of Christ abound in us, so our consolation also abounds through Christ. ⁶ If we are afflicted, it is for your consolation and salvation, which is effective in enduring the same sufferings which we also suffer. Or if we are comforted, it is for your consolation and salvation. ⁷ Our hope for you is steadfast, knowing that as you partake in the sufferings, so also you will partake of the consolation.

⁸ For we would not, brothers, have you ignorant of our troubles which came to us in Asia. We were pressured beyond measure, above strength, so that we despaired even of life. ⁹ We had the sentence of death in ourselves, so that we would not trust in ourselves, but in God who raises the dead. ¹⁰ He delivered us from so great a death and does deliver us. In Him we trust that He will still deliver us, ¹¹ as you help together by praying for us, so that thanks may be given by many on our behalf for the gift bestowed upon us by means of many persons 2 Corinthians

Do you feel that you have been raised to process anger in a good way? As a counselor working through areas of abuse and trauma, I find that I need to approach this subject in two ways. The blowers need to process through their anger and learn to let go and release the anger they feel.

Those who swallow or stuff down their anger can sometimes have difficulty with the idea of being angry. I have experienced the sweet Christian sitting across from me looking quite puzzled by the fact that I seem to be trying to get them angry. But I really am. Anger is a God-given response when something is wrong. This anger can come because someone is harming or threatening you. Which is where we want to explore here. I don't want you to stay angry; but I want you to visit it,

Completing the Restoring the Foundations integrated approach to biblical healing ministry in these four problem areas brings integrated healing into our lives. This can be a major life-changing occurrence. We experience the transforming power of God's grace as His purpose is accomplished and we are conformed more and more into the image of His dear Son, Jesus the Christ.[2] This further opens the door for intimate fellowship with God and His empowerment, making it possible for us to live the "overcoming" Christian life.[3] In the following chapters, we present the four problem areas in greater detail so that you may be better equipped both to receive ministry and to minister more effectively to others. Before we look at these, however, let's look at several foundational truths that undergird this integrated approach to biblical healing ministry. We also will give the first installment of Sandy's story, a story of God's healing in one woman's life that we will weave throughout this book. B. Foundational Truths The Restoring the Foundations integrated approach to biblical healing ministry is based on the central truths of the Christian faith. Both the minister and the ministry receiver need to understand and apply the truths regarding the cross, God's law, hearing God's voice and God's weapons.[4] 1. The cross At the heart of Christianity is the cross of Jesus Christ. At the heart of our faith is the cross. At the heart of all effective Christian ministry stands the cross.[5] The cross is the source of God's greatest provision for us. The cross represents the exchanged life, in which we give Jesus all that we are in exchange for Himself and all that He has done for us. Because of the substitutionary atonement in
